Our Year in Faith - It is unfortunate that some terms become so misused that their original meaning is obscured. One such term is prophecy. For us the true prophet is one who "stands in the breach." He or she proclaims God's judgments and mercy. They show us the will of God as we strive to reform ourselves and the world in face of the power evil and nihilism. It can be argued that the Second Vatican Council under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit is truly for us a prophetic voice.

The final document: The Church in the Modern World certainly fits the description of a prophetic warning that should awaken in every human heart the necessity for personal reflection and universal action. "The spiritual uneasiness of today and the changing structure of life are part of a broader upheaval, whose symptoms are the increasing part played on the intellectual level by the mathematical and natural sciences and on the practical level by their repercussions on technology. The scientific mentality has wrought a change in the cultural sphere and on habits of thought, and the progress of technology is now reshaping the face of the earth...Mankind substitutes a dynamic and more evolutionary concept of nature for a static one and the result is an immense series of new problems calling for a new endeavor of analysis and synthesis."(5)

Like all prophecies, the future is not determined. Freely man can choose to move away from those situations that have caused dehumanization, cultural depression, and domestic and worldwide conflict. We can make it our purpose to join with others of good will to rid our society of bigotry and hatred, we can choose to teach our children the ways of conservation of goods and the appreciation of their value, and we can take time to enjoy our spouses and children. We are created for joy, let us live that way.

Our Journey in Faith -

Our Awareness of Christ

Christ promised that He would always be with us in His word (commandments) in our desire to share Him in the promptings of the Spirit in our willingness to suffer for His sake in our acknowledgement of the Father through His Son in our realization of His forgiveness in our sense of peace and reconciliation with God, others and ourselves in our loving acceptance of each other especially the least of our brothers/sisters in our reception of the Eucharist in our prayers and silence

He is the reason for our hope in this world and beyond. Nothing is too great, too complex, too difficult for in Him we will find a solution... We fear not even death for He has conquered that too! He is one in us and we are one in Him forever.
