Our Year in Faith - Two weeks ago we promised to continue our examination of the Sacrament of Marriage. Today we will look at marriage from the visage of a moral union. Every couple must take seriously the unity called for in Genesis. This is especially true in terms of their manner of life. For example, why would a couple have a separate bank account? Everything that is earned by either party should be for the good of the whole. If we are holding back on a financial aspect what else might we be holding back? It is often said that marriage is a 50-50 proposition. Nonsense! It is a 100-100 covenant. The truth is at times because of a setback such as a death in the family or loss of employment or sickness one party might have to carry the whole load but at another time roles may be reversed. The term "moral" requires us to realize that the principal obligation we have towards our special love is to get them into heaven. In a practical way that means that all major decisions are to be shared.

It is irrational to expect that the decision making process will always go smoothly. Our opinions will be different and sometimes diametrically opposed. So the final aspect we must recognize in our covenant relationship of marriage is human. None of us possess infallibility therefore we at times must admit that our partner might have wisdom in their stand and vice versa. Arguments will rise in the best of families and attitudes which are not helpful will rear their heads. We must exercise patience with ourselves and our spouse. Attempt calm discussion. Listen!!! It is always important to say you are sorry and to freely grant forgiveness. A married couple can always mean it. For before they go to sleep they should always express sorrow that an issue has caused the love that is more basic to put on the back burner. There are too many trials and tribulations in life for a couple to be estranged. There are too many couples who have given up too soon on their marriages.

Finally, to truly enjoy life together with each other and the children your love brings forth pray each day for your family and for each other. Realize the holiness of the Church shines through your relationship. You give humanity hope for you have said life is so good I want to share it.

Our Journey in Faith -

Trinity Sunday

Today we celebrate the Feast of The Most Holy Trinity - The Mystery of God Himself. For most of us we have come to know God as children at our mothers/fathers feet. He was presented as one who created us, redeemed us, and sanctifies us - ever present day in and day out and one who waits for us at the end of our lives.

Our knowledge of God grew as we became acquainted with the Bible which we receive as God's Word. We believe that through the scriptures God reveals Himself to us and moreover His plan for our salvation. Little by little we have come to know of God's intervention into the history of mankind; How He chose a people as His own to communicate His will, to instruct us of His law, and to remind us of our commitments. Not always obeying God led to our need for even greater help. This came as an unmerited gift in the person of God's very Son, Jesus of Nazareth. God so loved us that the Word of God became flesh to dwell among us. He lived and taught by giving us an exemplary life to follow. Miraculously He cured the sick, exorcised demons, fed the hungry and preached the beatitudes. His legacy after suffering death by crucifixion was His promise that He would be always with us through the sacraments He instituted and the gift of the Holy Spirit that would dwell within His followers.

We as God's people hold sacred this triune God- one God, three persons - Father, Son and Holy Spirit. We confess that God is essentially a mystery - beyond our comprehension yet knowable, transcendent yet immanent, all powerful yet humble; whose mercy is loving and forgiving in an unconditional way yet just. One who not only saves us but waits for us to join Him for all eternity.

Fr. James Healy
