Our Journey in Faith

One of the temptations we might fall prey to is that of Deism. It is the belief that yes there is a God and that God created us, but at the same time God has little or nothing to do with us. He exists, but almost dispassionately, he allows us to do whatever we wish. There is no communication or revelation of what he wills. We are merely on our own to do whatever comes to mind.

This Deistic understanding of God and mankind contrasts strongly with our traditional Christian beliefs. For one, we believe that the same God who created us is the God we worship. It is the God who reveals himself to us through His word (the Bible) and the prophets and who became incarnate in the person of Jesus, the Christ and Savior of the World. His law is imprinted within us and is codified in the commandments. That He invites us to respond while at the same time allowing us freedom of choice. We, however, are responsible before God for the choices we make.

The scriptures, this 28th Sunday of Ordinary time, awaken us to the call of God and impresses on us the realization that God wants us to be totally involved in the conversation that we are to have with Him. To be careless or half-hearted is to shut God from our minds and hearts. Remember we must love God with our whole heart, soul, and being and we must translate that love to our neighbor. We must be thoroughly involved, for to be lukewarm is to trifle with God, not to take Him seriously. Jesus has said, "I am with you always, even to the end." Let us remember that and travel with Him every day of our lives.

Fr. James F. Healy
