Our Journey in Faith

Nobody, except for Mr. Warren Buffet, likes to pay taxes. Even during Jesus' time there was great resistance. The tax in question was a census tax, or head tax, imposed on each man, woman, and slave. It amounted to a day's pay and was to be paid in Roman coin which had on it the image of the emperor.

The Pharisees and Herodians were attempting to trap Jesus. If Jesus supported the tax, He would be looked upon as supporting the Romans who occupied Palestine at the time. If He responded in the negative, He would be accused of treason and viewed as subversive to the Roman rule.

Being so wise, His response denies the opposition of one position to the other. "Give to Caesar what is Caesar's and to God what belongs to God." Since everything belongs to God, He places supreme authority in God. Everything else is relative to Him.

So, should we pay our taxes? If we live in a society based on laws protecting the common good with a government responsible for our safety and security, we are all responsible for its upkeep. Given the fact that it takes money to execute these responsibilities, it follows that we must pay taxes. How much and who might be exempt is subject to debate. What we know is that as part of our civic duties, we must all play our part.

Fr. James F. Healy
