Stewardship-

If you plan on being away during the summer, please be sure to continue to send in your weekly contributions. They may be mailed or you may utilize the ParishPay program. Please visit www.parishpay.com to enroll. Your support in this effort is greatly appreciated.

Jesus was a master teacher and often used parables as an instrument to make people think about the meaning of familiar things and apply them to real life. He used metaphors and comparisons to jolt our minds so as to understand His message. On the 11th Sunday of Ordinary time, the scriptures bring to mind the beauty and value of trees; their function and usage in God's revealed message. From the Book of Genesis we are reminded of God's plan to create mankind in a setting of a garden, filled with overflowing trees, one of which was called "the tree of knowledge of good and evil." From this tree one could not eat. Yet given our freedom and pride, man succumbed and paradise was lost. But the tree of man's defeat would become the tree of victory when God's son mounted the cross and died to free us of our sins.

Trees were especially important in the barren, sun-soaked lands of the Middle East. Favored for the shade and coolness they provided, they were a favorite spot for people to congregate and take a respite from the heat of the days sun. The intertwining of branches off the stem became for Jesus a way of describing His relation to us. "I am the vine you are the branches" is our link to each other and to Christ. Jesus looked about and saw the majestic growth of the trees coming forth from insignificant seeds and envisioned His flock, the people of God, emanating from small beginnings to spreading throughout the world.

From our own perspective do we look about and envision what Christ saw? Do we recognize our togetherness and our utter dependency on the Lord? Look up at the lofty ceiling of our church and contemplate what Christ might like us to see and then look toward the wood of His cross. Such beauty, such love, such freedom!

Fr. James F. Healy

Father's Day Intentions - There are envelopes available in the pews and the back of the church for your Father's Day intentions.
